Our first stop is Montreal.

There's a lot of French influence in this beautiful city.

How's the trip?
It was great! I'll show you the photos later!
I bought you guys some local hand-made chocolate. It tastes really good!

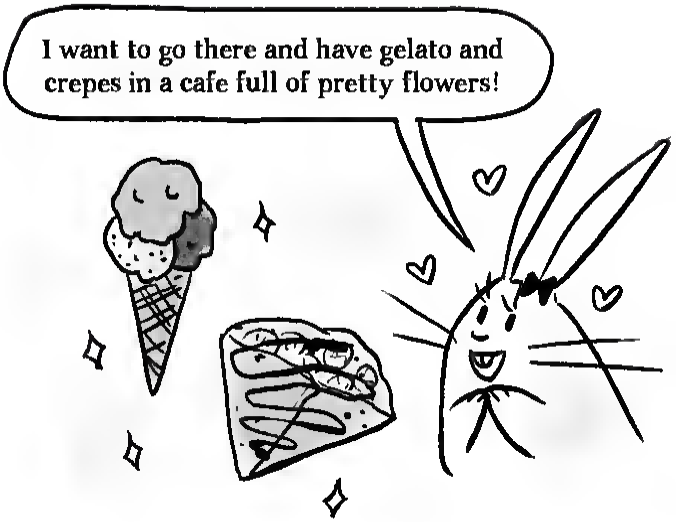
On the last few days of our trip, we visited our relatives and had a great time together.

@ Jean-Talon Market, Montreal



Most people speak French rather than English.

We also went to see the glacier at the icefield.

A lot of ice has disappeared over the years.

Many people ride on bicycles, and flowers are everywhere.

Awesome! We both had a great trip!
Yeah, let's get back to work.
Thanks Bonnie!

Pas de problème.
(No problem.)
Je peux parler français.
(I can speak French.)

We took a cable car to the mountain top.

The scenery along the Rocky Mountains is stunning.

Hi guys!
I'm back!
Welcome back, Leo!

Hey Doglas, you asked me to buy a book about local history right?
I bought this one, hope you'll dig it!
Thank you so much, Leo!

He looks a lot like you, Foxy!

Wow, yes! I want a plushie like that too!

Last but not least, we finally found friends for my plushie at the end of the trip!

That concludes my trip!

I hope you enjoyed this special episode about my little vaccation in Canada.

When you are reading this, I will be (again) on the plane heading back home and start my summer semester.

Have a great day and see you next episode! =)

Bonnie

To keep updating Roar Street Journal,

I brought my drawing tablet and work on my comic in the morning and at night.

We rented a car to drive to the Rockie Mountains, and saw different animals on the way.

I wish I could visit this museum too. So much to learn from all these masters.
What's so interesting about museums? I'd fall asleep right away.
Leo's chocolate

Then, we went to Alberta, which on the other side of Canada.

There are many museums and we visited a few.

We were lucky to come across an exhibition about the famous sculptor Rodin who made the Thinker!

I also draw sketches when I'm eating at cafes or waiting at the airport. Here's a few of them:

I'm going on a family trip with my parents to Canada.

We went to Canada 8 years ago where I bought this cute husky plushie. I brought it along in this trip, hoping to find a friend for him.

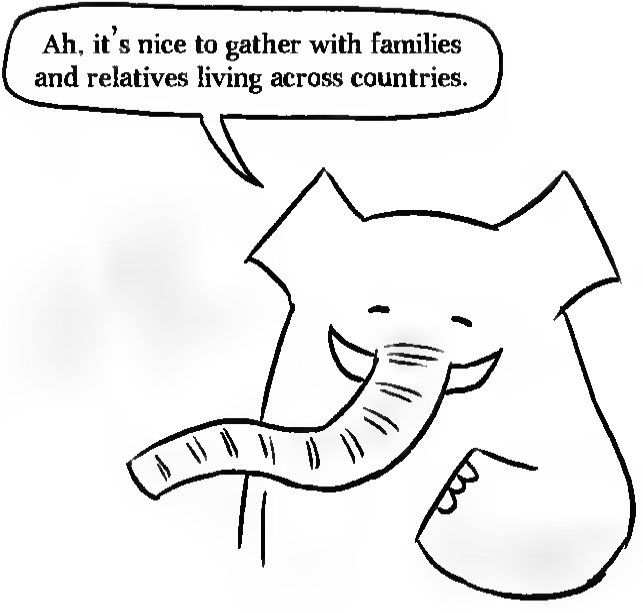
Hello my lovely friends at Roar Street Journal, this is a package from my trip. Hope you will like it and share it with fellow readers!

Bonnie :)

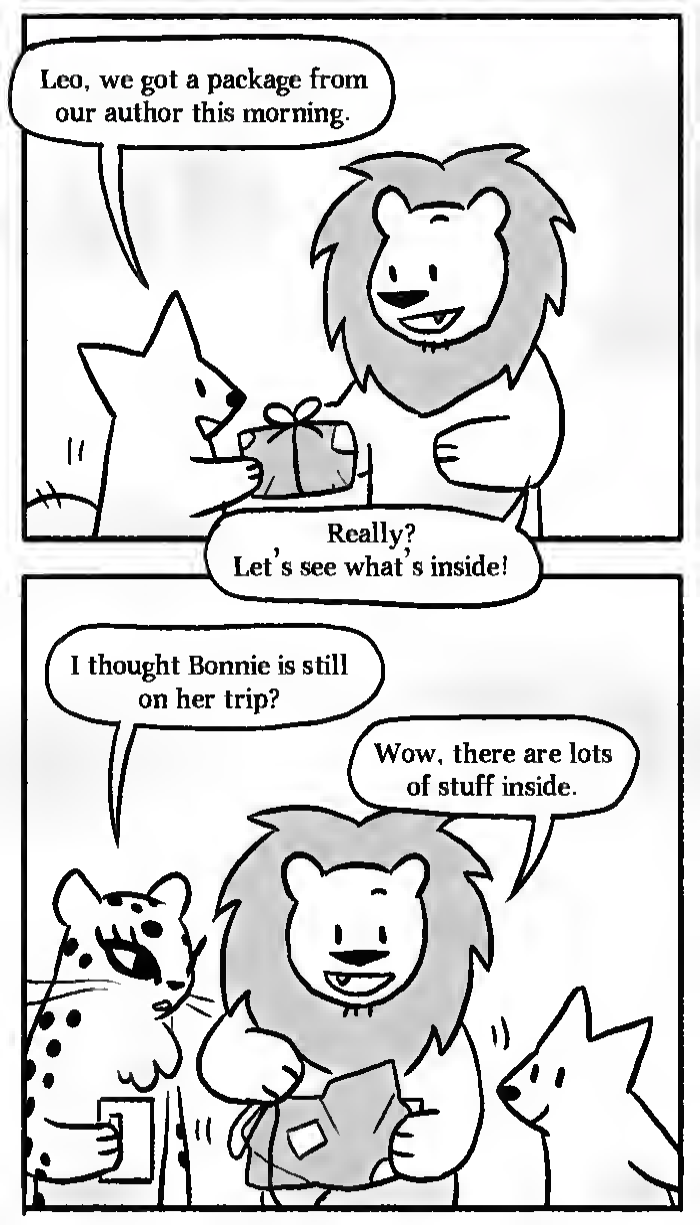
ROAR STREET JOURNAL

Author's Family Trip



Ah, it's nice to gather with families and relatives living across countries.

How much is it?
I'll pay you back.
Nah, forget it!
It's a souvenir for you!



Leo, we got a package from our author this morning.
Really? Let's see what's inside!
I thought Bonnie is still on her trip?
Wow, there are lots of stuff inside.

Our planet is warming up...
I hope everyone can be nicer to the environment.

Nice sketches.

There are so many beautiful paintings,
I want to live in this museum...

I also left footprints of Roar Street Journal at this remarkable place.
